WEDNESDAY MARCH 28, 1744.

Warſaw, March 14.

THE late unfortunate Death of Count Tarlo, Palatine of Lublin, takes up all Converſation here. He was certainly, abateing the Warmth of his Temper, a very worthy Man. His Quarrel with Count Poniatowski, as well as the Occaſion of their firſt Duel, are very well known to the World; alſo the extraordinary Letter which he wrote ſome ys ago, in order to force him to a Second. That man did all that was poſſible to avoid what has happen'd, but Count Tarlo was not of a Humour pacified; but took ſuch exceſſive Liberties, that niatowski was at length compelled to give him riſfaction he had ſo often demanded. This Affair to be determined on the 14th, at Marimont, which ut half a League from this City. Count Poniatowski arrived there about Nine in the Morning, and Tarlo an Hour after. At firſt their Swords were ; but Count Poniatowski having had the Better before in that Way, inſiſted on their fighting Piſtols; and, with much Difficulty, Count Tarlo to it. Count Poniatowski endeavoured to fire t his Piſtol only flaſh'd in the Pan. Count Tarlo ged his Piſtol afterwards, and miſſed him, tho' five Yards off. They then fired both together, hout Effect. They next drew their Swords, and o briſk Encounters, without any Wounds on Side. At the third Attack both were wounded ; Count Tarlo receiving a Thruſt thro' the Right of his Belly, of which he immediately dropp'd dead. Count Poniatowski's Wound was under t Breaſt, but not very deep, ſo that the Danger leſs. Count Tarlo was immediately carried to ace; and Count Poniatowski to the Barrack of own Guards. Theſe are the true Circumſtances melancholy Event, which, it is feared, will have neaces fatal to the Peace of this Kingdom, already ch diſturbed by inteſtine Quarrels.

The Auſtrian entred the Town almoſt as ſoon as he was gone; urſued the Spaniards vigorouſly, and in the Evenurned with two Priſoners wounded, two Waggons with Baggage, and Six very fine Horſes. The late vigorous Attempts of the Emiſſaries of Rome, to diffuſe their poiſonous Tenets among a free and Proteſtant People, and that under the happy Government of an illuſtrious Proteſtant Prince, muſt raiſe in every ſober and generous Mind a juſt Indignation againſt them, and a tender Compaſſion to the Weak and Ignorant, who are moſt expoſed to their horrid Deluſions. Surely, never did any Thing, that wore the ſacred Name of Religion, appear in the World, ſo monſtrouſly abſurd and deteſtable as Popery, which is the cruelleſt Merchandiſe of Men's Lives and Souls, and lies in direct Contradiction to Reaſon and Revelation, to Morality and Common Senſe, and to all the deareſt Intereſts of Civil Society, of Liberty, Conſcience, and Eternal Salvation.
